What a Gift!

“For nothing will be impossible with God.” Then Mary said, “Here am I, the servant of the Lord; let it be with me according to your word.” — Luke 1:37-38 NRSV

“F or nothing will be impossible with God.” These words still bring perplexity and pondering to a halt. They still inspire affirmation and resolve in the hearts of those who truly hear them. What a gift!

A prevailing confidence that God is bringing about new life in the face of the unexpected, the challenging, or the chaotic, still serves to ground the vulnerable among us and create resilience in us. Responding in such a faith-filled manner to the unexpected things life brings our way points to what may better be described as a holy resilience. It speaks to acting from a place greater than our human abilities, and a knowledge that God is involved in our lives. Holy Resilience — a gift that will not fit or be found under our Christmas trees.

To visit once again the story of Mary’s surprise encounter with Gabriel offers us a window through which to look, not only into Mary’s soul, but also into what holy resilience might look like. The story tells us where Mary lived, her innocent and vulnerable state of being, and who she was engaged to marry. It lets us know also that she was confused, perplexed and fearful — traumatized.

Another prevailing factor which the story doesn’t tell us is the climate of the times in which Mary lived. She lived in a time when Jews held distrust and hatred for the Roman Empire, which ruled over Palestine. King Herod, ruler of the region which included her hometown, Nazareth of Galilee, was a very powerful and cruel man. Not only did he call for destruction of human lives, but he also profaned religious practices and places of worship.

It was a time when the Roman government maintained strict control over 1st century Palestine through a pseudo-religious-political system of freedom for all people — a system which ensured that all religious beliefs, philosophical teachings, and government systems were compatible and subject to the Roman system. The system of Jewish religion and government was divided between two parties: the Pharisees — which strictly conformed to Jewish law, holding fast to the traditions of Israel’s patriarchs; and the Sadducees — the wealthy and conservative leaders who rejected the traditions of Israel’s patriarchs in favor of political and religious cooperation with the Romans.

In the midst of such political, cultural and religious upheaval, this young woman was met with the message of “You who are highly favored! The Lord is with you.” How strange and unexpected the experience must have been for her under such circumstances. Like any of us, when we are met with something new and strange, she became perplexed and fearful. We were created to respond to anything perceived as harmful or a threat to our survival in this way. When the patterns of life we’re used to get disrupted, our defense mechanisms are expected to kick in.

Mary’s inner alarm system was normal and healthy, and her initial response speaks to our human condition. The danger for any of us, though, would be to get stuck in the fear and perplexity. For, fear can take on a life of its own and control us in ways and at times we least expect. When we respond to situations out of fear rather than faith, we tend to make rather poor decisions; not to mention be viewed as pretty poor examples of followers of Christ.

In our own time, when our nation’s political, cultural and religious climate has the potential of being as hostile and threatening as that of 1st Century Palestine, we must seek the way of peace that can still be found in receiving the word of inspiration given over two millennia ago — “For nothing will be impossible with God.”

TENDING THE SPIRIT

announcement and explanation, “I am the Lord’s servant. May it be to me as you have said,” we see resilience at work — holy resilience. Here is a young and vulnerable woman faced with possible rejection from her family and her husband to be, as well as possible religious and political repercussions. Yet, she was able to respond with a resolve that came with the assurance of knowing that God was with her and God had gifted her with what she needed to live out that resolve.

Mary affirms the foundational truth that undergirds any resolve to accept what is before us and the inspiration to move forward in a faith-filled manner: This kind of resilience is not a gift we give ourselves. It is a divine gift that is given us so that when all is said and done, when all possibilities have been explored, when consideration has been given to who we really are, we can still say with confidence “Here I am, a servant of the Lord. Let it be with me according to your word.”

Sometimes it takes tumultuous times or great upheaval in our souls to come to such a place of deep resolve; but to come to it we must. So too must we move forth in a faith-filled manner. For, “to practice resilience is to bend with the assaults of life rather than rigidly holding on until they break us.”

In spite of our human condition, our place of residence, our relationships, or our national political climate, we must resolve to live from a Christ-centered place. In our daily lives, the racial history of the USA has been confronting us all the more urgent. Our efforts all the more urgent. Our racial history here and current indicators of continued racism nationwide make our efforts all the more urgent.

But reconciliation of all kinds is needed today. How we treat one another regardless of skin color, political stand, religion, or any other orientation matters. Divisiveness threatens the existence of the entire planet. According to the Apostle Paul, Jesus came to change all that and we’re meant to work for it too (2 Corinthians 5:17-20).

Roberta Bondi, in her little book, To Pray and To Love, offers a wonderful image of reconciliation from the early church. Recalling a time when one of the early monastic communities forgot the relationship between loving God and neighbor, Bondi tells the story of Dorotheos of Gaza who drew a wide circle on the ground. He told his brothers the circle represented the world. Next he drew a smaller circle in the center representing God. As he drew spokes from the outside circle to the center, he explained that each line represented their individual lives. They were, collectively, intending to move nearer to God at the center. But to get there, he pointed out, they were also moving nearer to one another as their individual lines converged toward the center. The journey to God was a journey of reconciliation with one another. And vice versa. He emphasized to his friends that they needed to pay attention to the way in which they treated one another if they hoped to be reconciled in every way.

We’re invited, too, to see our lives in those concentric circles, our own sense of closeness to God being wrapped up in our closeness to one another. As we learn to care for and embrace each another, even amidst our differences and diversity, we are brought closer to the One who created us each uniquely.

As we prepare to celebrate again God’s incarnation, let us remember to love in incarnational ways: a kind word, an offer of forgiveness, a listening ear, extending a helping hand. To begin the work of reconciliation we need only start close in with someone nearby. God is a reconciling God and asks us to do the same.

I was recently invited to speak at St. Paul’s Episcopal Church on reconciliation as part of their Sunday morning Adult Spiritual Formation series. Reconciliation is at the heart of our work at Richmond Hill and continues to be a great need in the healing of our metro area. Our racial history here and current indicators of continued racism nationwide make our efforts all the more urgent.

Robert Bondi, in her little book, To Pray and To Love, offers a wonderful image of reconciliation from the early church. Recalling a time when one of the early monastic communities forgot the relationship between loving God and neighbor, Bondi tells the story of Dorotheos of Gaza who drew a wide circle on the ground. Pray for the Families of Metropolitan Richmond.

Genesis 12:3
I will bless those who bless you, and him who dishonors you I will curse, and in you all the families of the earth shall be blessed.

December 4, 2016. We pray for the families of Metropolitan Richmond: For single-parent families, adoptive families, foster families, and for households that are communities of friends; for elderly persons living in their own homes, in retirement communities, and in nursing institutions.

December 11, 2016. We pray for the families of Metropolitan Richmond: For persons who are lonely or have no family; for persons who are estranged from their families; for persons who are grieving the loss of a loved one; and for all who need to feel the love of God.

December 18, 2016. We pray for the families of Metropolitan Richmond: For the care and protection of infants, children, and youth; and for the intimate knowledge that each one is a beloved child of God.

December 25, 2016. We pray for the families of Metropolitan Richmond: For an end to child abuse; for healthy relationships between children and their caregivers; for families going through divorce; and for all in the midst of life transitions.

Ready, Set...Go!

On Friday, November 11, 2016, ALP celebrated with mentors, parents, and volunteers at our Annual Autumn Social Gathering. The event was filled with fun and fellowship, held at East District Family Resource Center where we had a fresh food tasting station, community canvas art project, dance contest, campaign cool pledge, board games, mindful moment demonstrations, line dancing and opportunities to meet and greet. A special thank you to Brandi Daniels for hosting us. Also, we were happy to have in attendance, Tamara Mines, Principal of Armstrong High School, and Cezar Carvalhaes, Armstrong High School Communities in Schools site director. What was especially exciting was the Mindful Moment, led by Marvin, a period in which everyone pauses to practice relaxation and mindfulness. Mindfulness is a new initiative that will assist students in the areas of stress reduction, attention, focus and managing self from the effects of trauma. Additionally the ALP directors completed a three-day workshop on Basic Healing and Rebuilding Our Communities due to trauma, provided by Richmond Peace Education Center. The workshop provided insight into trauma informed care and resilience. This training will better equip us to process the sensitive needs of our students in relation to school, home and community. In collaboration with Armstrong Freshman Academy, we have prepared a grief counseling session, led by Rev. Andrea Kelly, for students before the holidays. Lastly, we are thrilled to announce our reconnection with Travelers Insurance Company. The Traveler’s team, lead by Michael Alkins, joined us at Armstrong High School for a motivational session on personal development and job readiness. …Kudos! The Fall Retreat happened November 18-20, 2016 at the Jamestown 4-H Center in Williamsburg, Virginia. Karen Donogan Salter led it. We are grateful for her many contributions over the past twelve years as our Retreat facilitator. We love you Ms. Woo-Woo!!! The theme was “Heroes Together…Unity in the Community.” More soon… Peace & Love

Noon 12:00 - 12:15 P.M.
Evening 6:00 - 6:15 P.M.

COMMUNITY WORSHIP
5:30 p.m. - 6:30 p.m.
Every Monday
The community celebrates Holy Communion. Services are led by ministers of various denominations according to their traditions. We invite you to join us afterwards for dinner in the refectory.

PRAYING WITH THE SONGS OF TAIZÉ
Jim Bennett, Leader
7:30 p.m. first Monday of each month
Taizé worship is contemplative and meditative in character, using short songs, repeated again and again in a candlelit chapel. The songs express a basic reality of faith, quickly grasped by the mind. The hope is this reality will gradually penetrate one’s whole being; thus the meditative singing becomes a way of listening to God. Our practice of Taize includes singing, prayer for Metropolitan Richmond, and a period of silence. Jim Bennett, a skilled musician, leads this time of worship with a variety of instruments.

SOAKING PRAYER SERVICE
DeBorah Cannady, Leader
1st Thursdays at 10:00 a.m. and 3rd Mondays at 7:30 p.m.
Those struggling with illness have benefitted from being “soaked in prayer” over periods of time. Prayer ministers are available to pray with those desiring emotional, spiritual, or physical healing. Participants are invited to find a comfortable place, sit, relax, and receive prayer. Participants may also come and go during the service.

GENERATIONAL HEALING SERVICE
5th Mondays at 7:30 p.m.
Rev. Dr. Paula O. Parker, Leader
Once a quarter, Richmond Hill offers a service for Generational Healing. This is an opportunity to invite God’s healing into your family, including generations that have gone before, as well as generations that will come after you. Participants are encouraged to bring the blessings as well as the pains and traumas of their ancestry written on a piece of paper (not to be shared). However, careful preparation of your personal genogram will help you pray more specifically for your family members.
For those who might find it helpful, 2-hour preparation sessions will be facilitated by Rev. Parker on the following Tuesdays during 2017: Jan 17th, May 16th, July 25th and Oct 17th. For more information, call DeBorah Cannady at 783-7903.

Saturday, January 17, 2017
9 am – 4 pm, in the Art Space
Enjoy a relaxing, refreshing, recharging day in the quiet and beauty of the Richmond Hill Art Space. There is time at the end of the day for sharing and reflection on the meaningful creative/spiritual process we experienced.
You can bring your own project and materials. Explore paper and found objects for collage, watercolors, pencil and markers. Consider making something to enhance your prayer time or make a gift for someone like a prayer card, landscape, bookmark, or an icon to reflect a person, concept, or scripture.
Facilitator: Brenda Giannini works to open us to the sacred dimensions of our lives through the gifts of the visual arts.
In this program, we look at various art forms throughout the year and create our own works of art in the prayerful quiet of Richmond Hill.
Suggested donation: $30.00 (includes lunch)
To register, please contact DeBorah Cannady, at (804) 783-7903 or by email: retreats@richmondhillva.org

Introducing the Recovery Eucharist — a service devoted to healing and personal transformation found within 12-step spirituality and embodied in the Eucharist. A special invitation is extended to those recovering from any addiction and to those who desire to support people in recovery.
Starting on January 24, 2017, on 4th Tuesdays at 7:30 pm in Chapel.
Most of us take the six weeks of Lent to reflect on our lives to see if our values and priorities are in line with God’s desires for us. Since most of us find that we’ve wandered from the Christ-centered path we desire to travel, Lent offers us another opportunity to return to God with our whole heart.

In the sixth century, when the Roman Empire was breaking apart and politics, cultural life, and even the Church were in disarray — tumultuous times not unlike our own — Benedict of Nursia designed what he termed “a little rule” that showed monks the way to peace as they learned to prefer Christ above all things. The “Rule of Benedict” offers timeless and practical tools for living a Christ-centered life today.

The Reverend Jane Tomaine will facilitate this 24-hr retreat focused on how the Rule of Benedict can provide practices to strengthen leadership, community and living from the Spirit. Using tools from her book St. Benedict’s Toolbox: The Nuts and Bolts of Everyday Benedictine Living, Jane will offer ways of praying and being in relationship that can open our hearts to Christ’s love and help us journey joyfully to the Resurrection.

JANE TOMAINE, DMin, author and Episcopal priest, lives in Mountainside, NJ. She is a nationally known retreat leader and workshop leader on the Rule and spirituality at monasteries, parishes and retreat centers. Learn more about Jane and her work at: www.stbenedictstoolbox.org
