A Grateful Heart: Our Source of Prayer

Without any prompting of our own, there are times when blessings and praises flow from our lips with ease and are hearts are filled with joy and gratefulness. In that flow, more than at any other time, we know without a doubt that we have connected with the presence, the work and the blessing of the Holy Spirit in our lives.

Whether reading aloud or silently, there are also times when the Holy Scriptures will prompt the same response in us. Whether it’s the Magnificat, where Mary cries out with joy, “My soul magnifies the Lord, and my spirit rejoices in God my saviour” (Luke 1:46-47), or one of the psalmist who blesses the Lord without measure, we enter into the joy expressed by one who is fully aware of the goodness of God in their life. We receive a blessing. We become a blessing. Our humanity is enlivened. We become fully alive and God is glorified. Such a blessing is indeed a time of Thanksgiving. I can only imagine that such delight must have been integral to what prompted early settlers to set aside a day to be intentional about expressing gratitude and thanks to God.

Apart from those impromptu moments of blessings, we have so much more to be thankful for in this life, each and every day. However, the reality is: we are not always so ready to give thanks. Sometimes the constant demands of life, its struggles and worries, give more room to defeat than to a heart of thanks. Or we forget in the midst of busyness and pressures to just pause and give thanks for all that God has done, and continues to do in our lives.

Rendering heartfelt thanksgiving is not always easy. So, having an intentional time and practice around giving thanks is surely good for us all. Sometimes it really is a sacrifice to offer praise and thanks. It could be that we just aren’t able to do so, or don’t feel like it. We’re struggling.

God is also willing to connect us to the resources we need to get us back to a place of gratefulness. We’re weary. Or maybe, we feel like God has let us down. We think God is distant, like God is far away, or doesn’t really care about what’s going on in our life. Sometimes it’s simply that the painful winds of loss blow through and send us spiraling into a despondent state.

Failing to recognize that all of the things mentioned here are prayers within themselves, some would advise us to, “Just pray.” However, the better invitation at such times might be an invitation to read particular psalms. The engagement with them can make a profound difference. And yes, as with any invitation, we do have the choice to take hold of the sacred resources that come our way. We also have the choice every day to give God thanks.

When we do choose to take up a psalm (or song) or any other sacred text, more often than not, we are encouraged to verbalize our situation to God. Then, we realize that God does more than change our situations or help us through our problems. God changes our minds and hearts. We realize that no matter what we face, through God’s power our minds become focused on goodness and our hearts are made grateful. The grip our struggles have over us is released. We’re strengthened by God’s peace, and refueled by God’s joy.

When it comes to prayer, as we have traditionally known it, its most profound gift to us is the acknowledgment of how desperately dependent we are on God. With the acknowledgment, prayer is known to be more than inviting God into a few select places in our lives. Rather, it becomes a freedom to let God roam through the fullness of who we are and the fullness of our concerns. The good news is that God is willing and able to work with it all. The “hand of the Lord is not heavy that it cannot save, nor God’s ear heavy that God cannot hear.” (Is. 59:1).

One of the many psalms which opens my heart and leads me back to gratefulness and thanksgiving is Psalm 24, particularly verses 1, 2 and 7: “The earth is the Lord’s, and the fullness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein. For God hath founded it upon
Choosing Forgiveness

Is forgiveness selfish? I was surprised to hear myself say that it is a few years ago while being interviewed in response to the Penn State Jerry Sandusky scandal. I was living in State College at the time. I didn’t mean it negatively, but it sounded that way, and I immediately felt like I needed some forgiveness myself.

Forgiveness isn’t simple. We don’t say, I forgive you, and that’s that. It’s a process that often takes time. It isn’t about forgetting the harm or offense either. Nor is it a free pass for another to keep harming, as if it condones another’s behavior. Forgiveness holds others accountable while providing space for justice to occur apart from vengeance and revenge. It requires a strength and courage unlike most anything else.

Several years ago, I visited the home of Corrie Ten Boom in the Netherlands. She and her family were arrested by the Gestapo during World War II and sent to concentration camps for stowing Jewish refugees in a hiding place they’d created in their house. Most of her family was killed as a result. Afterward, inspired by her Christian faith, she devoted herself to healing wounds throughout Europe.

“Since the end of the war I had had a home in Holland for victims of Nazi brutality,” she wrote for Guideposts Magazine in 1972. “Those who were able to forgive their former enemies were able also to return to the outside world and rebuild their lives, no matter what the physical scars. Those who nursed their bitterness remained invalids. It was as simple and as horrible as that.”

She’d found that forgiveness dramatically impacts the life of the forgiver even more than the one being forgiven. While forgiveness hopefully leads to reconciliation, reconciliation isn’t a requirement for extending it. The immediate benefit of forgiveness is a freedom provided to the one who offers it. Ironically, as long as you hold a grudge, it holds you.

I’m convinced that forgiveness is key to on-going growth and a deeper, fuller life. It opens us to love and may be the greatest act of love we can offer. It involves recognizing the humanity of others, regardless of their behavior (Luke 23:34), and accepting the paradoxical truth that God makes the sun to rise on both good and bad alike (Matthew 5:45). Released from the desire for revenge and the weight of regret, those who forgive are free to interact with the world in new and generative ways. But it clearly starts with self-care.

Desmond Tutu, in his book, The Book of Forgiving, says in no uncertain terms, that forgiveness is not a choice you make for someone else; it’s a choice you make for yourself. Self-interest is inherent to forgiveness. It frees us to go on living and loving others. It sounds selfish – forgiveness begins with me – but it has to start somewhere. Perhaps selfish isn’t always a bad word.

Pray for the Persons in Financial Need in Metropolitan Richmond.

The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me to proclaim good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim liberty to the captives and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed, to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor. (Luke 4:18-19)

November 5, 2017. We pray for persons in financial need in Metropolitan Richmond: For the unemployed and underemployed, for suitable work, living wages, and fair benefits for all workers in this metropolitan city; and for sufficient employment to make healthy family life possible.

November 12, 2017. We pray for persons in financial need in Metropolitan Richmond: For the homeless and the hungry, for the provision of safe, affordable housing and low cost nutritious food, for the personal safety, dignity, and well being of those who are unable to work.

November 19, 2017. We pray for persons in financial need in Metropolitan Richmond: For healthy marriages; for constructive, safe, and caring households for the bringing up and nurturing of children and caring for the elderly.

November 26, 2017. We pray for persons in financial need in Metropolitan Richmond: For the inclusion of all, regardless of race, age, or jurisdiction of residence, in the economic health of Metropolitan Richmond; for effective, affordable, regional public transportation.

Community Worship Service Moves to Tuesdays in 2018

Beginning in January 2018, our weekly Community Worship Service will move from Monday to Tuesday evenings. This change will provide our residents with a few additional hours of Sabbath rest and needed time together as “a family.” The shift will happen on Tuesday, January 2. The service will continue to be held in the chapel at the same time as before, 5:30 PM, and be followed by a community meal in our refectory. We hope the change will not be an inconvenience and that you will plan to join us then as now, as we continue to work and pray for the healing of metropolitan Richmond.

Micah celebrates Key Coordinators

Richmond Hill hosted the Micah Association’s Fall “Celebrating Key Coordinators” event on Thursday, November 9, 2017. We celebrated, sang, and engaged in important conversations, as we paused to give thanks. We reflected on what has been, where we are now, and where we dream of going as we seek to be faithful to Micah’s mission of walking humbly, loving kindness, and doing justice…in our schools for every child, to help every child believe “I can achieve.”

COMMUNITY NEWS: Deborah Cannady is now the Spiritual Director for Richmond Hill. Mary Lewis will take over as our Retreat Coordinator. And we wish Betty Jane Hagan blessings and all the best as she transitions back into the larger community. Thank you for your good work and kind service, Betty Jane!

“Praying With The Songs of Taizé” is moving to First Tuesdays in 2018

Beginning in January, our monthly Taizé service will move to the first Tuesday evening of each month. Our first time praying the songs of Taizé in the new year will occur on Tuesday night, January 2, at 7:30 PM. We hope to see you there and that you will also help us spread the word.

Take a break from the rush and hurry of your busy day and join us in a creative retreat in the inspiring, prayer-soaked walls of Richmond Hill. Slip into the spiritual rhythm of prayer and quiet here. Enjoy personal time with your creative self. Our art space provides a perfect place for you to connect with your inner spirit while using your creativity. We look forward to having you with us!
Join the Richmond Hill community for a weekend retreat patterned after Taizé, “that little springtime” in the Southern French Alps. Our weekend together will consist of small group formation, conscious work in the community, a chance to learn about both the mission of Taizé and Richmond Hill, and, of course, time to pray the songs of Taizé. Each of our regular prayer times will be done in Taizé fashion incorporating the songs of Taizé, silence, and our daily prayers for metropolitan Richmond.

The weekend will be lead by Co-Pastoral Director, Rev. Joel Blunk, who has spent two weeks in the Taizé community, and musician Jim Bennett, who leads the Richmond Hill monthly service, Praying With The Songs of Taizé.

- Pray the songs of Taizé
- Experience community at Richmond Hill
- Spend time in small group discussion
- Learn about both the Taizé and Richmond Hill communities
- Share delicious common meals
- Be renewed for faithful living out in the world
- Seek the healing of metropolitan Richmond through prayer, hospitality, racial reconciliation and spiritual development

DAILY PRAYERS
Morning 7:00 - 7:30 a.m.
Noon 12:00 - 12:15 p.m.
Evening 6:00 - 6:15 p.m.

COMMUNITY WORSHIP
5:30 p.m. - 6:30 p.m.
Every Monday through 2017 | Every Tuesday beginning in 2018
The community celebrates Holy Communion. Services are led by ministers of various denominations according to their traditions. We invite you to join us afterwards for dinner in the refectory.

PRAYING WITH THE SONGS OF TAIZÉ
Jim Bennett, Leader
7:30 p.m. first Monday in 2017 | shifts to first Tuesdays in 2018
Taizé worship is contemplative and meditative in character, using short songs, repeated again and again in a candlelit chapel. The songs express a basic reality of faith, quickly grasped by the mind. The hope is this reality will gradually penetrate one’s whole being; thus the meditative singing becomes a way of listening to God. Our practice of Taizé includes singing, prayer for Metropolitan Richmond, and a period of silence. Jim Bennett, a skilled musician, leads this time of worship with a variety of instruments.

SOAKING PRAYER SERVICE
Deborah Cannady, Leader
1st Thursdays at 10:00 a.m. and 3rd Mondays at 7:30 p.m.
Those struggling with illness have benefitted from being “soaked in prayer” over periods of time. Prayer ministers are available to pray with those desiring emotional, spiritual, or physical healing. Participants are invited to find a comfortable place, sit, relax, and receive prayer. Participants may also come and go during the service.

GENERATIONAL HEALING SERVICE
5th Mondays at 7:30 p.m.
Rev. Dr. Paula O. Parker, Leader
Once a quarter, Richmond Hill offers a service for Generational Healing. This is an opportunity to invite God’s healing into your family, including generations that have gone before, as well as generations that will come after you. Participants are encouraged to bring the blessings as well as the pains and traumas of their ancestry written on a piece of paper (not to be shared). However, careful preparation of your personal genogram will help you pray more specifically for your family members.

For those who might find it helpful, 2-hour preparation sessions will be facilitated by Rev. Parker on the following Tuesdays during 2017: May 16th, July 25th and Oct 17th. For more information, call Deborah Cannady at 783-7903.
Mary is the central character of the Advent story. She listens deeply, she ponders, she says yes, and bears God into the world. Her example is striking. Mary appears throughout the gospels supporting and encouraging Jesus, accompanying him through death. Aren’t we meant to do the same? To co-create, nurture, accompany, and suffer with? Francis of Assisi is credited with saying, We are the mother of Christ when we carry him in our heart and body by love and a pure and sincere conscience. And we give birth to him through our holy works which ought to shine on others by our example.

You are invited to join us at Richmond Hill for an Advent Retreat to explore Mary’s story and the implications for the healing of our selves and metropolitan Richmond. We will consider how Mary’s nature invites contemplation, compassion, creativity, and ecological concern. Join Richmond Hill co-pastoral director Joel Blunk and Kristen Saacke Blunk, who works in environmental restoration, for a time of discovery and exploration. Our time together will include:

- Rest and renewal in the company of the Richmond Hill community
- Praying the hours in the Monte Maria Chapel
- Consideration of Mary as an archetype of the divine feminine
- Meditation around the Richmond Hill statue of Mary
- Walking the labyrinth and exploring other contemplative prayer techniques
- Singing, storytelling, and other forms of artistic expression
