Day by day we find cause to reflect, sometimes leading to us to repent. In doing so, we make the decision to turn away from that which saddens and distracts us, and turn our attention to that which is good and right and makes us alive.

Transition is like that. In his book, Meditations of the Heart, Howard Thurman shares many poetic musings of what one might encounter when seeking to integrate the inner and outer life. The reflection below, written by Thurman almost 65 years ago, captures this present spirit of reflecting, repenting and deciding, which is so common in life here at Richmond Hill.

There is no question that we count on The One Thread — The Strange Thread — The Steadying Thread. It is indeed the one we pull on knowing that a source greater than ourselves holds the other end. By that source we are empowered to take our eyes off of the sick, high-flying, failing and tangled places we find ourselves in and turn our eyes to the “not yet” places which shine with hope and promise.

Many of us connected to Richmond Hill have made a commitment to view our vocations (whatever they may be) as a call to stewardship of metropolitan Richmond. At the same time we commit to being a steward of Richmond Hill. These commitments we understand are an extension of our greater commitment to be stewards of God’s creation. Any clarity we presently have about what these commitments mean is coupled with a great appreciation for the relationship between transition and transformation. As we seek to be transformed into the fullness of our created selves, we are ever mindful that periods of transition, as well as life events which catapult them, are nothing less than fuel for transformation.

Even amongst administrative duties, conversations, committees... meetings, program planning, worship and prayers, we find a myriad of causes to rejoice and to regret. Through it all, more clarity comes.

“Bloom where you are planted” is a phrase commonly heard among us. The phrase takes on a whole new meaning as life’s events become reminders that all, but one, of the threads we hold in our hands are connected to the threads that rest in the hands of “the other” in our lives. These threads continually reinforce the message that there are some things to let go of, as well as some things to hold on to. Threads that are released gives the “other” the freedom to act and create. Likewise, we each find freedom to be ourselves when threads of our calling are released to our hands.

Nonetheless, the practice of discernment is called for continuously. It is the means by which we give prayerful consideration to which of the threads we are called to let go of and which to hold on to.

Weaved into existence by all the threads is a unique tapestry, made up of the interesting stories that leave their own imprint on us all. We call the tapestry “Life.” There is a golden thread in the tapestry. It is The Steadying Thread — the thread that has guided us to the “Island of Peace within our own souls.” It is the place where the inner and the outer find agreement.

The Armstrong Priorities Freshman Academy (APFA) is the realization of a series of conversations by East End Clergy and Community Leaders on what could be done to improve conditions in the East End of Richmond. Though many important concerns were talked about, there was an agreement that the best starting point to reviving our community would be to focus on education. We specifically agreed that our initial focus would be on the only high school in the East End. Thus we began with a goal to increase the graduation rate at Armstrong High School over an initial period of at least five years.

The APFA is designed to offer focused academic and social support to a cohort of 60 freshman that are entering Armstrong High School. This cohort of students would receive academic support by offering additional math and English courses along with tutoring, mentoring and after school programs at Armstrong High School by teachers and tutors. Further assistance would be offered by volunteers and mentors that would assist with afterschool and community activities.

With much prayer, planning and perseverance, the Armstrong Priorities Freshman Academy began operation in the late fall of 2014 with the hiring of Program Coordinator, Jessica Anderson. Ms. Anderson immediately began working to bring the program into reality by coordinating with Principal Hawkins and the faculty at Armstrong High School to identify the initial cohort. The school year ended with a retreat for several of the Academy students at the Westview on the James at the end of the 2014 - 2015 school year.

The Armstrong Priorities Freshman Academy (APFA) began its second year of operation in August 2015 with a full staff of teachers and volunteers ready to assist a new cohort of students to a better academic and social experience.

The Armstrong Priorities Freshman Academy is supported by Richmond Hill, Baptist, Episcopal, Catholic, and United Methodist congregations both in the East End of Richmond and the greater Richmond community. Additional support is provided by community partners like Bon Secours Health System, 7th District City Council member, Dr. Cynthia Newbille, 7th District School Board member, Donald Coleman, United Methodist Conference and several foundations not to mention Richmond Public Schools along with Principal Hawkins and the faculty of Armstrong High School. We solicit your continued prayers along with volunteer and financial support of the Academy as we seek to revive the educational opportunities of our community.

The Spirit of Richmond Hill is Alive in its Facilities and Grounds

At Richmond Hill, the Spirit often manifests itself in one person’s life—and, then, others discover the same Spirit alive in them. Well, it’s happened again—this time with a call to care for our facilities and grounds.

A generous donor has agreed to match donations to our capital budget up to $25,000 if made by the end of 2015. $5,000 has already been donated toward the cost of repairing a water-damaged wall in the chapel behind the altar; leaving us with $20,000 more to go. The facilities committee has received estimates for 13 other repair or replacement projects ranging from $250 to $18,000. Another 10 larger projects are being assessed and estimates are being considered. Please help us make the most of this opportunity — your donations are needed to match every dollar! Are you called to join this “community of caring” for Richmond Hill’s facilities and grounds? This is a great opportunity!

Armstrong Leadership Program is now seeking mentors

If your calling is to serve high school students, please consider becoming a mentor with the Armstrong Leadership Program. We invite you to join us, with opportunities in mentoring, tutoring, job shadowing, facilitation, or assisting with college preparation. ALP is designed to cultivate a team of selected students who are committed to growth in areas of personal development and leadership training. With a series of workshops, retreats, cultural exposure, tutoring, service learning opportunities and one-on-one mentoring, students are transformed into emerging leaders within their school and the greater community.

The solid foundation

We are human, therefore we are prone to making mistakes. The Holy Spirit who lives within us gives us strength but he does not take away our free will of choice. There are times when we make choices that are not good for us or others. They may cause embarrassment and pain. Our humanness can lead us away from God or draw us to Him through Jesus Christ His Son our Savior. Jesus Christ the righteous one pleads with the Father on our behalf.

We are alike in many ways but there is only one of each of us. Some people desire to copy bits and pieces of other people's personalities and try to make themselves into something they are not. In this way they become a copy instead of an original. Let us remember that an original is always better than a copy even with the best copier. Let us be ourselves for no one else can.

A child knows where to turn when they hurt. They turn to loving arms who will greet them and gentle hands to dry their tears. Where do we turn when we hurt? Some of us turn to family, friends, a therapist or others for comfort. There are others who are wise enough to turn to God. Because all other help is only a bandage not a cure. The only true cure lies is seeking God. All others can help by pointing us to God where we are safe in His arms.

But the solid foundation that God has laid cannot be shaken. On it are written these words, “The Lord knows those who are His and whosoever says that they belongs to the Lord must turn away from wrong doing.” (2 Timothy 2:19). God’s truth is revealed to us in the Bible and that is where we can test what is right and wrong for us. Building our life on God’s truth is the only foundation.

What a wonderful, majestic, mighty God we serve! In the beauty of God’s creation we are made to realize how wondrous is His power to create and to love. In His hands are the deep places of the earth the strength of the hills also. O come, let us worship and bow down let us kneel before the Lord our maker. (Psalm 95:6). What else can we do to honor God? Let us worship His majesty today.

Rev. Dr. Alice W. Harris
Pastoral Counselor
Common questions dealing with sickness are: What ails you? Do you have a common cold? Do you have constant indigestion or digestive disorders? Do you or a loved one have cancer? The myriad of health defects we can experience over our lifetime can be extensive. Fear and stress work with our poor diet choices to really punish our God-given temple. Personally, I am sick of being sick. I want to devote myself to understanding how Jehovah Rapha (Jesus) comes into our lives and makes us whole in Him. Through His word I hope to illuminate the path that I am on so that others may benefit as well.

May we start some good old-fashioned wisdom? “My child, be attentive to my words; incline your ears to my sayings. Do not let them escape from your sight; keep them within your heart.” (Prov. 4:20) To me this verse is speaking of the digestive system of our souls. With food, our mouths are used to consume our daily bread and then it is broken down in the stomach to nourish our bodies. With our souls, this verse shows us that our eyes and ears consume our Daily Bread from God, and it is digested in our hearts. Since what manifests in the natural is from the spirit, it is safe to say that our heart diet and stomach diet hold hands in a lot of ways. We should quick to understand both.

It is not about TIME! It is about SPACE! Look at Isaiah 58:5 which says “...a day to humble oneself?” He is showing His servants that we cannot complete a period of time for our healing to come — but we are to lay down everything before Him to remove the space between us! “Then your light shall break forth like the dawn, and your healing shall spring forth quickly.” (Isaiah 58:8).

I have come to a place of listening for God’s instruction for me, His son, today! I am only concerned with being one with my Father! No Space. No boundaries or restrictions; only freedom in Christ.

So, now I fast — fresh fruit and vegetable juices only. Detoxification has begun and my body is aching and cramping as it expels toxins that took up way too much space in my body. Each day that passes I experience a glimpse of God’s light breaking forth! Each day the commitment to wholeness in Him grows stronger. May He continue His work in my body and heart as I digest everything He says to me. May He inspire others through this experience to seek freely our magnificent and wonderful Healer!

Brian Lamm
Urban Service Corps

Brian Lamm arrived in the Richmond Hill community in August this year when he joined the Urban Service Corps Class of 2015-16. He is a member of Movement Church in Richmond.

Leadership In Action

Prior to the first day of school, student leaders participated in an overnight retreat for three days at Richmond Hill for the 1st Leadership In Action Summer Institute.

The purpose of the Institute aimed to support, develop and encourage urban youth to think critically about what makes for highly effective leaders in school and community. The focus was to encourage students to participate in and explore self-reflection, the discovery of their gifts, strengths and abilities as individuals and as a group while becoming better servant leaders.

To start off the institute, students experienced the labyrinth walk led by Linda Carr-Kraft, daughter of Rev. Dabney J. Carr for whom the Richmond Hill labyrinth was dedicated. Experiencing the labyrinth walk known affectionately as the “Jerusalem Mile” set the tone for the day, as it prepared the students for a quiet period of focus, intent and personal reflection. Additional activities included: a service project at the school as the students helped teachers at Armstrong High School prepare their classrooms for the new school year. Many of the teachers stated, “It was great to have the students come in and help in this way”.

The students listened to a spirit filled presentation by Rev. Janie Walker, Interim Pastoral Director on leadership styles and servant leadership. Additionally, Council Members Don Cowles and Tiont Williams provided a few words of inspiration and encouragement to the students. During one afternoon session, Benjamin Ross led students on a tour of historic Sixth Mount Zion Baptist Church where they learned of the leadership of Rev. John Jasper, founder and community leader.

Additionally, the students selected the first ALP Executive Committee: Dijmon Waddy, President; Auntey Smith, Vice-President; Diamond Thompson, Secretary; and Trei Young, Public Relations Representative. Also, action committees were developed: Campaign Cool/ALP Service Projects, Community Outreach and Tutoring. The committees were designed to provide examples of leadership in action, develop and create positive activities that will provide assistance and support within their school and community. The institute culminated with review and evaluation as well as a day of FUN at Kings Dominion Park. When asked to share thoughts concerning the Institute one student stated: “We got a lot accomplished and even got a chance to hash out our differences while preparing to work better together as a team for the upcoming school year.”

The ALP staff and students are grateful for your generous support and efforts in making this enriching experience possible. Thanks.
